Sustainable Public Transport: A BusVic - UITP Workshop

A lot has been said about our public transport services contributing to a more sustainable land transport system. But what does this really mean? By taking a blow torch to the concept of sustainability, this workshop will give you some real answers.

The Workshop is being jointly presented by Bus Association Victoria (BusVic), a signatory to the UITP Sustainability Charter, and UITP. The timing is set to coincide with day 2 of the annual BusExpo and Conference run by BusVic, the largest transport conference and trade show in Australia. Workshop attendees will share some sessions and entertainment with the BusExpo, while also enjoying their own specially tailored program.

A range of national and internationally recognised specialists will provide insights into the triple bottom line contributions that public transport makes towards greater sustainability and there will be plenty of opportunity for attendees to contribute their own ideas and explore issues with speakers.

If you want to understand, and help advance, the latest thinking on sustainable public transport, Moonee Valley Racecourse on 8th July, 2008, is the place to be.

A registration form is part of this brochure.
